But I still had a sufficient accent for children to catch me. When I was still at school, I climbed to a pretty place to have fun. Their favorite stories - or maybe they were so numerous - it was every time I escaped seriously or worse. You can not swim in Å'le. I discovered how to climb the tower, tie the piano thread around the bell and drop the other side of the building. If someone throws a cigarette through the window, I would run, take it and save the tail to I have some matches. When the director heard, he sent me home and my father punished me. Once I followed a boss who insulted me in the bathroom; After landing a few punches, I stuffed paper towels in my throat and health. I hated being compared to Pete, I could see the boy lying on the bout and the ambulance that took him. He entered my room and saw a mother out of the bed. I was supposed to put it on the offer sign, but I would keep it and assemble the roller coaster on the Redondo Beach pier. I would smell the hard cigars and blacks left lying on the ashtrays and BIDE my time that I could empty some glasses of wine instead of drinking ginger beer prepared for children. You have never seen a house so clean like an Italian house. "You are the one who, if I say, 'empty the trash,' says 'just a minute' and then disappears!" I knew she could have spread many other examples, but instead she jumped from the table and ran to her room crying. He worked hard all his life, always had a job, always made money. I still have a scripture card; restricts the house from being sold to anyone else who is not a caucasian white. I never used my head, I never thought of as a result. My Leshão and my clothes too. He finally stopped the train, left, stepped on the track, and it fell. Instead, 12 thousand miles for forty -seven days in a raft, and after the Japanese rescued me/captured I supported more than two years of torture and humiliation, facing death more often than I cared to remember. So we hid it in a cave that we got to the wild of the Tree Row. Of course most moms. She turned and saw only bubbles in the surface. She called my parents and said: 'You have to start speaking English at home. That would not be the last of my narrow escapes. If someone came from the front door, I backed down to the garage to leave. In the innio, thinking we were renting, our German and English neighbors raised a petition against us. I was just a social malaise, the provisions that could not fit the round hole as the rest, or appreciate what he had. We did everything, from chocolate bars to car peans, and when we suspect problems to make us wander around the city and beg other gangs in BB weapons wars or fights. He had to collect dirt and sprinkle in the grease. I walked through the wire across the street and entered a pepper -ruling. My father had just returned from work and had to clean me with a turpentine heartthrob and a paint brush. I went home, went to my room, peeled my clothes and slid to the bed, shaking. I took a bottle of milk, poured into white paint, and wrapped it, lining the interior. The father would research the meeting calmly and would break with his soft smile of miles of Da'lares. A positive form. She liked to remember the old days when my eldest sister, Pete, my sister, Virginia and Sylvia, and I was young. When he would go somewhere with a friend and he would not let me come, I would follow anyway. I destroy the property. My friends and I was long pieces of wire and pushed hyginic paper in payable phone return slots. But they had no choice. I gave the big guys. On my way home, I heard how to be pushed, I just climbed and punched the brave my teeth, then ran like hell. I deserved it. I know it was not my fault, but I always felt guilty about facing his challenge - and relieved I lost my first race. When I was older, I entered and we left the hotel stores and surroundings with my head down, looking for ass. My blanket was in the Chã E o and the living room was bright with light. My uncle Louis, my mother's sister, touched all the instruments there. Then, whenever he could, he would be at my house before school to give me a lift for me to miss. I was famous for shooting at the girls, but invariably ended in a classroom corner facing my problem. Brutta bestia! The more time it passed, the more my resentment grew. Roger, a classmate with whom I had a disagreement, punched me on my back. That afternoon, at home, my parents saw my purple, injured by transfers when I changed my clothes. They were really dedicated. Louie. I left him. I even refused to eat with Famãlia. The place was stuck. I stole some pies of his bakery trucks, and he shouted for the Polish, which made me pay for the goods. Mather in Olean (in the center-central of New York) told my parents, you need to get your children out of this cold weather where the weather is hotter. I was always called Lucky Louie. My parents have not been church. My mother was not a shit or a slattern or an ineffective idiot. They were stained with blood. I knew you came back. The people on my street did not recognize me; Maybe they thought I was the creature of the Black Lagoon. Louis, you spit it off immediately! Instead, I swallowed and got sick like a dog. I didn't know his name; I don't know if he died. Now he knew. My parents tried to move me, but in those days there was no widespread psychology for children, especially poor children, so I was off. Take smoking. When I struggled, I never thought about someone really died. When I was after years, my mother and took me to the largest salty water pool in the world in Redondo Beach. Eventually, I confused myself with the older troublemakers, and that pushed me on the limit. At school, the girls were informants who often told me for my mischief. Another demassic joke was playing the church bell to wake the city. I'm going to beach, I said. Fortunately, another boy found him in time. asked my father. "When you are, he countered, shrugged in the direction of the cell, you can not go to the beach. My. What I did not like was being caught and risking being sent to Juvenile Hall in Los Angeles. . we are tasks. But we are warning you: this is where you will end up if you did not get in.
